Art Unit: 1754

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 30-32, 35-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Schuetz et al. 5536694.

The reference teaches, especially in columns 4, 5 and 8, Raney copper of 54 microns size alloyed with aluminum (50-50) and doped with a metal.

The recitation of Pt group metals (ie, noble metals) as dopants renders the claims unpatentable. If a matter of selection among a list, then this is obvious. If small enough a genus to anticipate, then the teaching anticipates. Similarly, with respect to claim 31, col. 3 line 62 teaches 30:70 Al:Cu; the effect recited is deemed possessed since the composition is met.

Concerning claims 35-38, process steps do not limit the product being claimed; no differences are seen. Note also the teaching of col. 4 line 54.

Claims 33 and 34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schuetz et al.

The reference overlaps the range of metal of claim 33 in col. 6 line 9. Choosing the claimed amount of Pt group metal is an obvious expedient of optimization of catalytic effect versus cost; In re Boesch 205 USPQ 215.

The reference does not explicitly teach the lack of micropores (claim 34), however this appears to be possessed by virtue of the teaching of col. 7 lines 5-10, which indicate lack of surface area. Alternately, col 4 lines 60 et seq. teach that pore size may be optimized. Choosing not to have micropores is an obvious expedient to optimize porosity and surface area of col. 7.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure, especially the teachings of EP '152 ex. 17, are noted but not applied to avoid duplication of rejection. It is noted that the oath appears to be from the parent file.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
